

Placing talented and experienced executives in senior living and healthcare leadership roles nationwide.

Transitions in C-Suite level leadership create opportunities for transformative change in an organization. You are not just filling a role, you are choosing the person who will lead you through your next phase of growth and development. This is a time to review your strategic plan, connect with your vision and values, identify your future priorities and set the path forward.

LeaderStat will support your key decision makers as they work through this critical process to identify your next leader. Based on this knowledge, we will source candidates who have the demonstrated skills and experience as well as cultural alignment. Our dedicated search team will work with you through this entire process, ensuring a positive and smooth transition.
